JEROME ON THE THAW CASE. Calls It Just an Every-Day Police

Court Matter. When William Travers Jerome, district attorney of New York, who is to conduct the prosecution in the trial of Harry Thaw and who is visiting Atlanta, was asked if he regarded the case as an important one, he replied: "Important? Why, it is just the everyday police court story."

"What is there new or singular," he continued, "in one man killing another because of jealousy? The same thing happens nearly every week. In the eyes of the law the defendant's money adds no luster to his situation. Most of the apparent romance is a newspaper product. "Most of the star witnesses so far," he continued, "as you may imagine, have not been gifted with reticence. These women love to talk. Miss Edna So-and-So or Miss love to talk. Miss Edna So-and-So or Miss Irene So-and-So will come down to the office and tell Mr. Garvan or some of the others of us what she purports to know, but the matter doesn't end there. Just outside the office some newspaper man is lying in walt. He takes Miss Edna or Miss Irene in charge, carries her to the cafe, and then comes a bottle of wine. Naturally then comes a bottle of wine. Naturally what the young woman has to say is somewhat embellished. What goes into print appears to come from the district attorney's office. Miss Edna and Miss Irene have testified those disclosures to Mr. Garvan, so the reader supposes. And there you are. It's a great game.

"The paradox comes," added the district attorney, "when some paper begins to roast our office for fighting our case in the newspapers." When asked his opinion on the issue of the case, Mr. Jerome said:

"Twelve men will determine that. I am the state's representative, not a jury."

Post of Honor for Rojestvensky. It is understood at St. Petersburg that PUBLIC PLAYGROUNDS

ATHLETIC GAMES FOR TRAINING OF BOYS AND GIRLS.

A meeting of the athletic directors of the public playgrounds was held yesterday, afternoon in the Ouray building. Those present were Dr. Henry S. Curtis, Lieut. John W. Crawford, Miss Mabel Towner, Edward Gilfillan, Richard Dear, P. L. O'Brien, Richard Hynson, Bernard J. Wefers, R. B. Patterson, C. E. Beckett, James Walker, B. C. Dodson and S. D.

Milton Stress was laid upon the subject of trophies for this year's final tournament between teams of the respective play-grounds. Dr. Curtis said that there is not enough money available for trophies out of the regular appropriation, and that reliance will have to be placed upon private sub-scriptions to meet the cost, otherwise there will be no trophies. About $200, it is stated, are needed for this.

It was announced that what athletic sup-plies were urgently needed had been ob-tained. Foot ball is a game which will be added soon, and the necessary outfits have been ordered. A "leader" button will be

been ordered. A "leader" button will be given to the ten boys best qualified to take care of any one playground. The commit-tee will also present a handsome buttor, bearing a picture of the Capitol and the words, "Champion, public playgrounds, 1906," to every boy who comes up to the fol-lowing standard:

lowing standard:
"Boys under thirteen years of age; sixtyyard run in 8 3-5 seconds; pull up four times; standing broad jump, 5 feet 9 inches.

Virginian Not Justified in Carrying Weapon, Judge Held. "I live over in Alexandria county, Va.,

and it is such a bad place over there that I have to carry this gun," was the excuse offered by James Baumgarden, charged in the Police Court this morning with carrying a concealed weapon. Judge Mullowny did not consider the excuse as justifying the offense, and he imposed a fine of $50, with the alternative of thirty days on the farm. Policeman Lintler of the first precinct saw Baumgarden on Pennsylvania avenue and noticed a protrusion in his coat that indicated the barrel of a large pistol. The officer thereupon invited Baumgarden around to the station house. "Had you been drinking some?" asked Judge Mullowny of the defendant. "Yes, sir," was the reply.

"A half-load of gin and a loaded revolver is a bad combination," suggested his honor,

"You get in a small argument with a man, and it ends up by you drawing your gun and shooting him."

A distinct earthquake shock was felt at 11:50 a.m. in El Paso, Tex., yesterday. Buildings rocked and swayed and many persons fled to the streets. The thermometers and instruments in the weather bureau, in the federal building, swung back and forth for several minutes. No damage was done.
